TO BE TAKEN INTO ACCOUNT

Reform of provincial administration

Fragmentation of work

Sharing economy and platform economy

A society with a local focus

Pop-up participation

Types of funding

Administrative reform will change the current situation. The role of municipalities will change and local communities will become more important.

Fewer traditional careers, while entrepreneurship grows in importance. People will belong to several communities simultaneously, but on a 'gig' basis. Organisations must reform their practices.

The sharing and platform economies will be emphasised in society and various forms of entrepreneurship. Digitalisation will cut across various areas of life. Local development funding will come from various sources in the future.

CORNERSTONES OF ACTIVITIES

Leader as a platform

A coordinator will be needed in order to benefit from the physical environment and local dimension – to maintain and encourage interaction, assemble teams, provide small-scale financial assistance and help with the dissemination of the results.

Pilots and an experimental culture

Leader-platform tools. The village or municipality will operate as a pilot environment in which public actors, citizens and businesses work together to bring new solutions to the markets.

Leader as a forerunner

Leader will be a promoter of new practices, solutions and technologies, a "risk financier" and a disseminator. Leader actors will be pioneers of digitalisation and set an example.

Everyone lives in villages

Everyone lives in villages, including city residents. Leader will provide the means and tools for rural and urban development.

Local focus

Physical environment and local focus will continue to be the key issue. Virtual world will bring networks that cross administrative boundaries.

Citizen-orientation

Leader will function alongside local communities, to complement old and create new innovation systems.

LEADER IDENTITY

Funder

Diversification of funding base is essential. A role as a funder will turn activities towards project-based development. This, in turn, will make activities project-driven and the strategic aspect will be lost.

Developer

As a developer, Leader cannot continue to be a traditional "development company" or provider of services, many of which have disappeared in Finland.

Platform

As a catalyst and matchmaker, Leader will gather different actors together to resolve genuine customer-oriented problems and disseminate the results.

Role
must be clarified

Brand must be stronger

Cooperation must be tightened

FOR FURTHER CONSIDERATION

Operational management

What is the nature of board activities and where do members of the Leader board act?

Clarification of role and status

- *Funder, platform or developer?
- *Is our own message clear to customers, partners and decision-makers?
- *Is our own position and role in local development networks clear?
- * Do Leader groups cooperate at provincial level?

Strategic cooperation

- * Learning and development among and between Leader groups?
- *Relationship with village actions?
- *Customers – companies, citizens and organisations – included in definition of Leader 2.0?

Leader as an entrepreneurial activity

- *If a leader group were to think of itself as a company, how would it work and productise and market its outcomes?
- *What will be left if funding for the rural development programme and the related activities is withdrawn?

Competence development

What skills do we need more of?
Should we acquire these ourselves or in cooperation with partners?
